The Fourth Freedom

The Fourth Freedom
Freedom of the press has always been a timely subject, and this being National Newspaper Week, we pause to comment briefly on the Fourth Freedom.
Thoughts on the subject raise the question: What is Freedom?
Freedom to a lot of different people means a lot of different things. To a condemned murderer, it would mean escape from prison and the penalty of the crime. To a child scarcely able to walk, it would mean only freedom to toddle in the path of danger.
But we are concerned here with freedom for full-grown men and women, law-abiding for full-grown men and women, law-abiding citizens, who have intelligence and the Godgiven right to use it in the conduct of their given right daily lives.

Freedom in Religion means the right of the individual to worship the God or gods he chooses in the way he believes to be right.

chooses in the way he believes to be right.

Or it means the right not to worship at all.

Freedom from Fear means that no lawabiding citizen need fear for life or limb at the hands of others. It means freedom to live a normal life without fear of any Gestapo or concentration camp.

Freedom of speech is a guardian of these two freedoms, because it gives the individual freedom to comment on how he is being governed, to criticize present laws, to suggest improvements, but not to advocate actions contrary to ill-fitting laws until, by due par-liamentary process, those laws have been changed.

Where one man, by speech, can reach scores of people, by means of the printed word he can reach tens of thousands. The sound of the soap-box orator's voice reaches only a few hundred feet into the crowd. When only a few hundred feet into the crowd. When has spoken, the sound is wafted away into the still air. In the cause of Freedom, Free Speech is priceless to our democracy, but how utterly helpless it would be without Freedom of the Press! When, by speech, one man can reach dozens, the daily and weekly press reach millions.

Freedom of the Press, like any other freedom, implies responsibility, in order that liberty may be retained. Guarding of this Fourth Freedom rests, in the main, on the Press itself. It must be forever true to the responsibilities that this Freedom has created, and it must guard carefully any attempt to encroach on this all-important Fourth Freedom. To paraphrase a noble th Freedom. To paraphrase a noble in, 'Eternal vigilance is the price of Free Fourth dom'.

As advocates of Freedom, we cherish dearly Freedom of the Press in this Canada of ours. Some subversive elements in our midst would like, most of all, to throttle the Press of Canada, including this newspaper, to usher in a ruthless dictatorship where the Four Freedoms would not exist.

Four Freedoms would not exist.

We represent only a small segment of the Weekly Press; but we hereby "o-dedicate ourselves to serve honorably and well our privilege to publish what we believe to be true about kings governments, dictators and our readers, who, like ourselves, are common men and women who must be served in the unceasing fight for Freedom.

'Most Valuable Crop'

'Most Valuable Crop'
The Winnipeg Tribune, published for the urban residents of Manitoba, has printed a report stating that Western Canada's 1950 wheat crop is big and the most valuable since the war. Thre aren't many Alberta farmers who could agree with this line of reporting, for three important reasons.

The Alberta crop is not good except in a few districts, as to volume, and frost damage has not only reduced yields but has cut down in grades. We could never understand how the milliers and bakers knew whether to use No. 1 Northern or No. 4 wheat in their bread. They certainly aren't likely to sell flour and bread at a lower price simply because they are getting their wheat cheaper this year due to lower grades. Bread with a cheaper grade of wheat isn't sold at a lower price.

The guaranteed price, too is reduced, the first of the state of the stat

Trouble on the Road

By RAYMOND ARGYLE

The twin problem of dangerous driving and poor roads was never more evident in Alberta than today Arising toll of traffic tragedies has made the highways of this province, in the minds of some, a menace to life and limb

And the highways have caused others to curse at the pot-holes, mud lanes, and other 'back-country roads that pass as highways.

Just the same, mind you, there are miles and miles of fine highways in Alberta. But what concerns us are the high rates for automobile license plates, the fact that any body at all can get a driv-er's license, and the gov-ernment's policy, in the ernment's policy, in the main, of spending only automobile revenue on road construction.

Now, to quote a few facts and figures, the gov-ernment last year obtained over $13,000,000 from automobile revenue (license plates and fuel taxes), and spent about $15,000,000 on road work. From capital account where the $55,000,000 m crown reserve oil lands go, they spent less than $2,000,000.

than $2,000,000. This means that the government, despite the fact we badly need new roads, is depending almost entirely on automobile revenue for such work.

And it never fails to make this writer wonder why the roads to the oil districts (and that's where government is making all its money), are in th an awful mess.

There's no reason why a flat fee of $10 per private passenger car (as in Ontario), would not create sufficient revenue for 'regulation and control' of passenger cars. We say this because that is all the money from license plate fees is supposed is all the money from license plate fees is supposed to be used for.

It should not be used to pay almost the total cost of road construction. Construction of highways is a capital expense of the provincial government, because highways are essential to modern living.

And capital funds should be used to build them. The twin evil of this condition is that anybody can get a driver's license. In Edmonton, all you to do is walk into the administration building. fill out a card, pay a small sum, and you've got your driver's license.

It doesn't matter what kind of a maniac you uld be on the road! There should definitely be driver's tests for all applicants. Furthermore, if a person is not up to par in his driving, there should be suitable instruc-tion available for him.

Probably the best place to start, though, is with the high school students of today, who will com-prise the majority of drivers on the roads to-

The Alberta Motor Association has launched a very worth-while campaign for lower license fees, and for tests of driving applicants. It's just possible that the Alberta Teachers' Association could do a lot of good toward ending Alberta's highway menace if they began working for driving classes in the province's high achools.

asked, amazed.
"To the letter."

The waitress explained to the chef and managed to get the man exactly what he had asked for.

He stopped here briefly on the last leg of a conbriefly on the last leg of a continental speaking tour (for his headquarters were in New York) and Technocracy was attracting attention all over North America in its first bid for supremacy.

For 12 years before that, Scott had been working on various en.

new abundance.

Scott studied the system, found it to be one which was based on price, and came up with the apparently obvious solution that the price system must be junked before security and abundance could be secured. He reasoned that there could be no abundance under a price system, because the maintenance of price demands a similar maintenance of scarcity.

So he and his associates launch ed Technocracy—a new social sys-tem that could end all the evils of the price system if only the people would accept it.

The name means, literally, 'science rules,' in distinction to the theory of people ruling themselves, as set out in the principles of democracy.

In the depre hard to talk the idea of a system to the people of North Am erica. Technocracy went places erica. Technocracy went places. It sprouted local clubs, called sections, in all principal cities and towns of the United States and Canada. It began publishing its own magazines, operating squads of Technocracy Cars, set up an elaborate research organization, and trained speakers, writers, and radio commentators.

Then came the war, which Technocracy condemned as a conflict lyunched only to prolong the life of the system. For this reason the organization was banned in Can-ada. But it continued its activi-ties in the States, and after Pearl Harbor came out in favor of full and vigorous prosecution of the war effort.

As a matter of fact, before the war was over, the ban on Technocracy was rescinded in Canada, and the organization began advocating Total Conscription, of men, machines, material and money.

During the war years, Technocracy looked back on how the price system mearly crashed during the depression, and they fully expected it to do the same after the war, only in less time than before.

the long-predicted collapse of the price system hasn't materialized. It probably won't, collapse of the price system hasn't materialized. It probably won't, for the system seems to be able to develop new ways of life, and to grow with events.

Which leaves the Technocrats in Alberta back where they were before—waiting. But today there's less of them than at any time since Scott first appeared on a lecture platform in the Foothills province.

Hunters in Alberta Have Plenty to Remember

When Albertans set out for their fall hunting trip there's plenty of things they should remember besides the dates of the opening and closing of the season.

Tips to hunters are set out in big poster just issued by the Alberta government.

Among other things, the poster points out that it's unlawful to hunt big game unless you're clothed in a coat and cap of scarclothed in a coat and cap of seam-ter material, to kill big game ani-mals under the age of a year or with horns less than four inches in length, to use dogs to hunt big game, to use aircraft or game birds in such hunting, and to re-move evidence of sex from the carcass before you've got the ani-mal home.

Farmers, incidentally, don't need a game license to hunt game birds ense to hunt game birds

While Alberta hunters will ger erally enjoy an 'open season' this winter, there's to be no hunting of moose, antelope, swans, cranes, quail or hen pheasants.

General deer hunting season is in November and December. You can shoot most bears all year round, but you can nab the beaver only between April 1 and May 15 and only by special permit or registered trap lines. May Solve Housing Shortage Here

Success of a co-operative house-building plan in Ottawa may make it possible for half-a-million war veterans to build their own homes with little or no down payment. The plan in Ottawa, has 29 veterans building 29 houses under V.L.A. and National Housing help and direction. Here, V.L.A. construction superintendent uses a house model to demonstrate the fine points of building to his ,'students' who expect to move into homes they have built themselves by next spring.

Newest Princess Makes Debut

Tiny Princess Anne; third in line of succession to the British throne, is seen posing with her mother, Princess Elizabeth and her brother, Bonnie Prince Charles, in this charming study made in the sitting room of Clarence House, London residence of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The little princess, who is just one month old, is first daughter born to royal couple.

New United Church Moderator Named

Of interest to Alberta is the recent appointment of Rt. Rev. Clarence M. Nicholson as moderator of the United Church of Canada. It is seen being presented with the robes of office by retiring moderator Rt. Rev. W. Brewing. Nearly 250 delegates attended the recent United Church convention in Toronto.

More Power To You!

SAYS EVA CRUMMY

LOSING THINGS:—The time to impress upon-children the impor-tance of not losing their things, is before they start school. But the beginning of the term is a good time to stress the value of having a healthy respect for one's possessions.

A former teacher, who is now sending her third to school, retains vivid memories of many things left in classrooms and halls, which provided a source of annoyance for both parents and teachers alike. This mother did not wait until her offspring began being things; when and park them in a "pretend" garage, away from walks and out of other people's way. Sometimes her admonishings amounted to nothing more or less than a game of "I'll bet you forgot your mitts or lost your bus tickets!" But the game served the purpose. They enjoyed winning the bet—even if it lever only verbal.

When the youngsters started school she offered a simple reward a term without anything lost. And 51 worked.

"Lositus" is an affliction of children which can become an expensive habit as they grow older. For it is one thing to lose a ruler or pencil: but it is a horse of a different color when a 2ippered brief case disappears.

The time to catch the coit is when it is young, and even inexpensive things are important to him.

SAFETY IS A HABIT.—A little care can prevent many an accident. We do not want to make Milquetoasis out of our children, but we cannot help repealing the trite expression that in the case of an an accident—an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure!

As the Alberta Traffic and Safety Guide states, most accidents occur in the home or on the street, so the homemaker bears a large part of the responsibility for safety education.

Do we protect our families, by teaching them to protect them-selves? Objects left on stairs and randings may cause injury to some-one else. If children are taught to place things where they belong, the control of the control of the control of the control of the the home. Little people have a unique hop-skin-and-jump method of ascending and descending stairs which is dangerous. This is easily overcome by asking them to return upstairs and come back down, using the handrall, and a little less haste.

We never know when one of our own may meet with an accident in the street. But we can co-operate with the safety council by teaching the children the rules for safety. One way to cut down the number of accidents is to get the young people off to school in good time, so that they can get there without hurrying, or being tempted to cross a busy street. If they have time—they can wait! Traffic is much heavier just before school opening when people are running to work. If the children have crossed the busiest theorems that they are said they have been been considered the safe is likely to meet with an accident.

Safety is a habit worth cultivating!

Family No Aid to Girl Who Supports Mother

Dear Louisa:-My brothers and sisters are all married and my mother lives with me. Ever since I finished high school I have been supporting my-self and paying board to mother. Now that all the rest of the chil Now that all the rest of the children are married that is not, of course, enough for her to get along on but none of the others seem to think they have any responsibility in the matter at all. sponsibility in the matter at all. They not only expect me to support mother but to take care of her when she is sick. Is there any reason in the world why a girl should assume the care and support of parents just because she is single and has no one else to help out with the expenses? UPSET

It is amazing how selfish some people are and how often families will pick out one poor mem-ber to be the goat and put every burden on him or her, as the ase may be.

There is certainly no reason why you should shoulder the whole burden of your moth-er's support and care. If you were the only child I know that you would gladly share every-thing you have and sacrifice your personal desires to care for her personal desires to care for her but when you have sisters and brothers who demand that you do so while they deny themselves nothing, that is a different mat-ter altogether.

If I were you, I would have a family meeting-without letting your mother know about it-and

INCREASED WHEAT PAYMENT ASKED BY UNITED GRAIN GROWERS CHIFF

Initial payment by the Canadian Wheat Board on all grades of wheat should be increased by 15c per bushel and prompt settlement on past year's crops should be made by the wheat board with some participation by the government of Canada.

President J. E. Brownlee, K.C., of United Grain Growers Limited made a statement to that effect recently on behalf of the Company's Board of Directors in seson here, as follows:

"Because of present financial needs of a great percentage of farmers it is important that the Wheat Board should pay out as soon as possible the tens of mil-lions of dollars which it is now holding representations. holding representing remaining proceeds from sale of wheat in the 5-year pool which was closed on July 31st and from the marketing of oats and barley during 1949-50.

To make immediate payment possible we urge that Wheat Board accounts in respect of such be closed at once by trans ferring to the Government at

Christian Living Demands Surrender to Christ

Personal commitment to Christ is a necessary part of every Christian's life. This means the surrender of oneself to Christ, and it involves several important stens

Jesus himself in Matthew 16:24-25, outlines the steps very clearly. First, he says "If any man (or oman) would." In order to become a follower of Jesus Christ, one must make up his or her mind to do so. Any man or woman is free to do so, if he really wants to become a follower of his. Then, Jesus declares that that person who would be his follower must be willing to pay the cost, for it does cost something to be a Christian. The cost gets progres-sively higher, too, as one goes Jesus says, "Let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." What does he mean by declaring that his follower must "deny himself?" He means just what he says. One who would thine be done!"

"And take up his cross." An old Scottish minister, William M.
Clow, often used to say that Christians confuse a cross with a burden or a thorn. "A burden means the care and strain of daily life. It includes all that makes life

However, "the Cross of the Christian differs from any burden or thorn. The cross he could escape, and he would if he were not a follower of the meek and lowly Saviour . . . Your cross is something you can take or refuse. It may be some care of another, whom you could refuse to help; some sad lot of life that you could escape; some poverty that you could leave behind if you compromised with the devil; some concern for others that would keep you back from fame and fortune. All this you could refuse to touch, or even face; at least to concern for others that would keep you back from fame and fortune. All this you could refuse to touch, or even face; at least it up each moving when you awake from sleep. All of this and more enters into crossbearing.

Personal commitment to Christ means the willingness to answer his call to training and leadership.

Mark's gospel tells us of Jesus' call to his disciples, four of whom are mentioned in our scripture for this lesson. Simon and his brother, Andrew. James and his brother, John, were all busy at their daily tasks when Jesus called them to become "fishers of men." It is significant that these men were cative, successful workers and it significant that these men were active, successful workers and it is significant that today, the call to leadership in the churches of the world usually comes to the busiest, most active people. The call of Christ to service does not always mean the abandomment of one's chosen profession but it does mean the willingness to put him first in that vocation.
